Reflections

... on passing minutes, hours, and days ... the New Haven campus unfolds into a bustling mass of humanity. A student trying to find his own place, "do his own thing," emerges from the mob into his own existence that sets him apart from the crowd.

Developing a distinct personality is not easy—he must explore, push forward in areas which contribute to his knowledge and uniqueness. Through his creativity and relations, his ideas become a reality.

Contributing to organizations, becoming interested and involved, he cuts his own image. He learns that others are molding and shaping themselves into a central group ready to accept him and his ideas ... the complete individualized self.

Queen candidates Tami Zimmerman, Kathy Taylor, Janet Richhart, Kathi Williams and Carol Pearson assemble together for the last time before the final decision.

Several breathtaking moments are broken as Senior Carol Pearson is crowned Homecoming Queen.

Senior class retires float trophy

Homecoming spirit was sparked by a crackling bonfire. Fans brightly clad in yellow mums jammed the stadium to watch the kick-off between the Bulldogs and the Concordia Cadets. Amid all the hoots and hollers, it was all the way down the field to a 6-6 deadlock.

Miles and miles of tissue and crepe paper constituted float constructions. For the Class of '70, all the long hours and hard work paid off. Winning the float contest for the third consecutive year, entitled the class to retire the float trophy.

Rallies and a pep session featuring "The Ugliest Thing in the World" boosted Bulldog spirit. The marching band and the NJROTC drill team added to the half-time festivities. A new queen's reign and a dance to the Atlantis in the girl's gym brought an exciting Homecoming to a close.

"Not bad . . . not bad at all!"

"My Fair Lady" is the story of a penniless flower girl, Eliza Doolittle. Transformed into a duchess by a British phonetician, Eliza reigns supreme at the Embassy Ball.

Her road to success is hampered by a suitor, a drunken father and her love for Higgins. Eliza reaches the end of her road when the suitor is cast aside, her father reformed and Higgins realizes his love for her.

Eliza and Higgins are united in a classic happy ending.

"Miss Eliza Doolittle" makes a royal entrance at the Embassy Ball and escapes her past.

Not many families have the same relationship as Alfie Doolittle and his daughter Eliza. Alfie wholly lives up to his name of Doolittle.

Hours of diligent study go into Eliza's transformation.

Freddy, alias Mike Alber, croons Eliza on her doorstep daily but Eliza isn't interested in words.

Eliza isn't at all interested in returning to Higgins.

Perhaps the biggest addition to the show was the thirty-two piece orchestra directed by Ron Best.

As the curtain closes, such a successful feeling can be felt only among a leading lady and her director.

Criticisms and suggestions on Eliza's progress are given to her by Mr. Higgins' servants.

Tears bring musical to a close

My Fair Lady proved to be much more than a musical. For the cast and crew it entailed many hours of labor and painstaking rehearsals. Yet all the work was worth the final reward of five standing ovations.

Mr. Dennis Benson's stage crews set a scene of Old England with fabulous sets, lighting and costuming; while Mr. Carl Nicholas' and Mr. Ron Best's music set the pace for the entire show. The production, which played to five audiences, was under the direction of Mr. Milt Sinn.

As the curtain closes for the final time, only tears are left along with the memory of five standing ovations.

The dancers join in a lively street can-can in celebration of Alfie Doolittle's approaching marriage.

Coach Paul Armstrong tries to boost the spirits of quarterback Bob Rutledge during a loss to Central.

Athletic events stimulate spirit

Enthusiasm overflowed as Bulldogs united to promote school spirit.

Victory posters and signs jammed the halls. Fans gathered at the many athletic events to cheer the Bulldogs onto victory. With each success or failure, came new determination to spark another victory.

Hours of personal time were volunteered to produce skits and assemblies. Bulldogs participated in club projects and community activities, and offered their services to the organizations which they supported.

By promoting spirit, Bulldogs grew in mind and character and made New Haven a better place.

Being a band member involves much more than the usual classroom procedure. Marching at home football games is one of the many extra activities.

Cheerleaders, players and fans drenched by a sudden down-pour remain to the very end as "neither rain, nor snow, nor darkness . . ." can dampen Bulldog spirit.

1970 fashions plunge to floor

Judging by hair lengths alone, instead of Junior Kevin Fox, Senior Tami Zimmerman is the logical one to use his door without attracting attention.

Bells and long sweaters were popular as seen here on Juniors Jim Frederick and Illene Silverman.

Senior Karen Girardot models the maxi coat that Junior Cheryl Ellenberger admires.

Senior Trish Janson and Sophomore Cathy Fensler enjoy the freedom of a relaxed dress code with culottes.

Changing times and the relaxing of former dress codes by a more lenient administration permitted Bulldogs to enjoy the freedom of choosing their own fashions.

Contrary to faculty opinions, pleated culottes and erratic hemlines were not disrupting to the learning process. Furs, suedes and long sweater vests, also made their appearances.

Although the male population didn't seem to experiment with clothes as much as their female counterparts, guys did go for flared-bottom pants, and body shirts with wide ties. However, they were slow to accept really wide bells, leather vests and Romeo shirts.

Several boys broke tradition with long hair, but the majority still found pride in neatness.

Life begins on Friday night

For New Havenites, weekends brought a time to mingle socially. Dates and dances exposed an entirely different side of one's self. That girl in algebra suddenly became a date and a person in a new and brighter light.

Basketball games, movies and the local pizza parlor provided places for students to meet and talk. Everything from Viet Nam to the next day's assignment was discussed.

Weekends also provided a time for the guys to get together for the weekly poker game, while the girls discussed date possibilities at an all-night gab session.

Casual class contact grew into meaningful and worthwhile friendships; some were to last the school year, others for a lifetime.

After a week of books, teachers and homework, students take time out for a quick dip at Club Olympia.

Modeling provides an exciting hobby for Senior Sue Fox.

Christy Zapp doesn't seem to mind that Senior Jill Schmidt is taking over while her parents are out.

Bulldogs break from rigid routine

Students and teachers take time out from a trying day to relax at the Future Teachers Christmas Tea.

Open lunch hours provide time to pick up a "quick one", cool off, and meet friends in a relaxed atmosphere.

Seniors Jerry Mazock and Jack Rockeby "let off steam" by shooting baskets in some spare time.

Is Senior Doug Beatty really studying Government, or is he possibly more interested in "something else"?

Despite pressing study and work schedules, New Havenites found time to relax. The different ways in which Bulldogs diverted themselves were as numerous as the number of students.

With time being such a precious element, students did that which they enjoyed most. Meeting with friends at the local hang-out, loafing at the public library, or simply being alone to gather one's thoughts passed time for many Bulldogs. Others preferred a few silent minutes to catch a quick snooze after last night's cramming.

Regardless of how the spare time was spent, it was a time when the Bulldog was free to do what he pleased, to let loose and express his true self. As the school year progressed, life became more and more hectic and these spare moments became more precious to New Havenites.

Senior Rachel Koontz shares her interpretive dance to the "Love Theme From Romeo and Juliet".

Hee Haw is still recovering from this unusual performance by Junior Dan Headlee and Senior Rick Kirk.

The Hamms beer commercial will never look the same as when performed by Seniors Rick Kirk, Paul Jaessing, Phil Schwalm, Gene Crandall and Junior Dan Headlee.

Happening '70 lacks audience

Happening '70, New Haven's annual talent show was again sponsored by Fine Arts Club. Competent crew members and 27 entertainers performed for an audience of about 60 people on January 20.

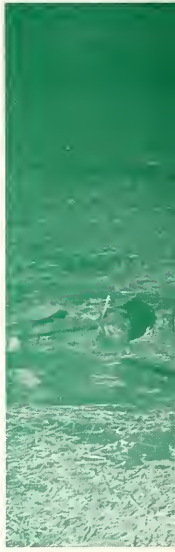

Exceptional talent included singers, dancers, pianists and comedians. Humorous acts taken from TV's "Laugh-In" and "Hee-Haw" amused the audience while the stage crew changed sets. Group production numbers proved to be overwhelming successes, especially Senior Tami Zimmerman and Juniors Jan Winicker and Pam Schinnerer's song and dance number, "Big Spender". Emcee Senior Don Wharton jokingly kept the show moving.

Happening '70 lacked only an audience, but for those attending, entertainment was provided by a very professional looking group.

Senior Don Wharton, a favorite of "Happening '70", plays one of his own compositions.

"Peter Gunn" is the background music for a modern dance performed by Junior Brenda Reginold.

Dogpatch Day draws crowd

"Barefoot Ball", the Seniors' Sadie Hawkins fair and dance on April 3, was well supported with about 400 students attending.

Original booths including Latin Club's ping pong throw, German Club's dunking booth and Clerical Lab's popular "Hillbilly Haven" movie theater provided the night's entertainment.

The Girls' Gym decorated in country style boasted a huge "still" in the middle of the dance floor. Marriage ceremonies complete with rings and certificates permitted the girls to marry their favorite guy with Mr. Schilling officiating.

After the marriage ceremonies, Senior Gary Peterson was crowned King Schmoo.

Testing their speed and physical ability at the Junior Olympics are couples Kim Goodin, Lana Baker and Kim Netherland, Denny Grimm.

Typical of the couples attending the "Barefoot Ball", Sophomore Billy Meredith pins a daisy corsage on her date, Senior Doug Lohse.

"A Time for Us" boasts medieval decor

Hosting 280 prom couples, the juniors presented "A Time for Us" on May 2 in the Scottish Rite Ballroom from nine to midnight.

Many hours of planning were culminated when dates danced to the music of Jimmie Steer and his orchestra under many colorful medieval banners and shields suspended from the ceiling.

The theme song for the evening, "A Time for Us"—the Love Theme from "Romeo and Juliet", was played during the coronation of juniors Kevin Mattingly and Lana Baker as king and queen of the prom and during the presentation of the court.

The junior parents presented "Signs of the Zodiac", the after-prom party at the Oaks with "Lucy Grey" providing the music.

Late hours and trips to the Pokagon State Park and the Indiana Dunes topped off the weekend.

Couples dance to the music of Jimmie Steer's orchestra.

It's skit time at the dinner-dance as seniors set the twelve years of "no-no's" to music.

Chris Callahan receives the outstanding musician award presented by Principal Maynard Henwood.

Lantern hosts awards banquet

Seniors took that final step on May 28, 1970 at the War Memorial Coliseum when the 458 received their diplomas. Speaker for the evening was Mr. Edward McFaul, a university professor whose address was entitled "What Now?" Concert Band played the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" as graduates made their grand entrance.

Baccalaureate, also at the Coliseum, featured The Rev. Thomas Weigand as speaker. Concert Choir also did a variety of numbers including, "No Man is an Island", "Onward Ye Peoples" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You".

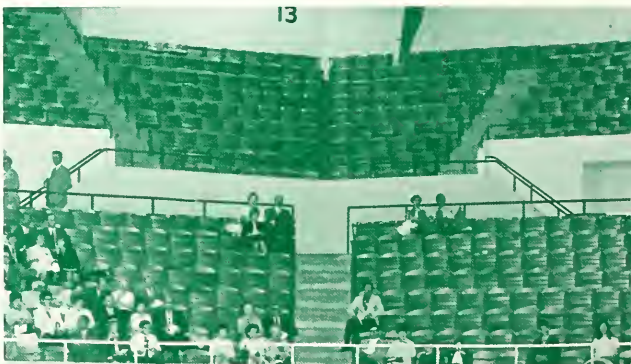

"Choice of Colors" provided the music for the senior Dinner-Dance at the Lantern on May 27. In addition to dinner and dancing, the evening included a skit by some class members.

Posing problems for Steve Blacklidge is the traditional paste-board graduation cap.

1970's class is the largest yet to leave New Haven.

Twice as much celebrating occurs at Hege's household.

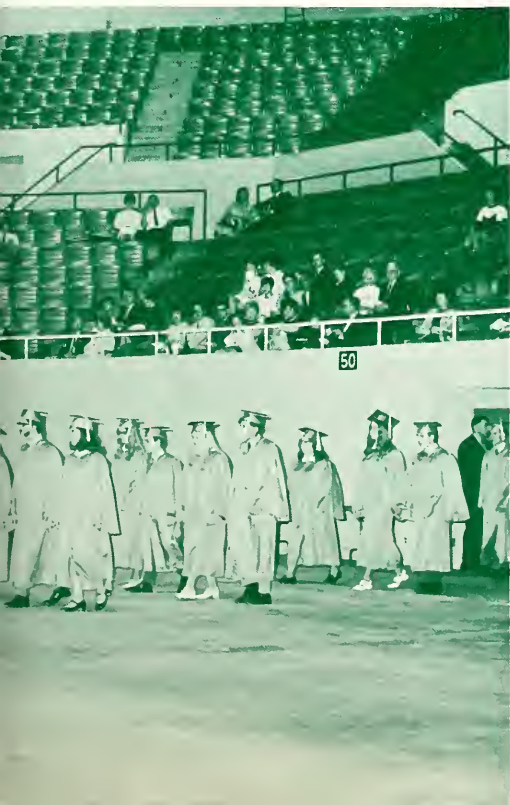

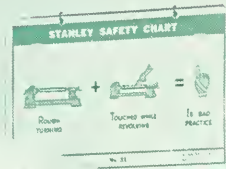

A tie for top honors resulted in three co-valedictorians Mary Larson, Venus Rath and Nancy Shifley.

Retiring Principal Maynard Henwood accepts a gold watch from the seniors presented by Doug Beatty.

Taking the final steps, solemn seniors file to seats, while only piles of garb and memories remain.

458 graduates leave NH for wider horizons

New Haven's campus is a mass of students cramming classrooms, overcrowding halls, searching for answers, gaining knowledge, insight.

Academics

The wide range of academics aids the student in personal development and sparks the dormant flame, bringing forth hidden talents and abilities.

Man's thinking, actions studied

Economics class studied the profits and gains in industry, commerce and capitalistic market system of our country. Values and probabilities were studied as pupils realized the mechanics behind the growth of expenditures and investments on a large scale.

To students in psychology and sociology classes, the study of Man's thinking and actions as he relates himself to the world in which he lives proved to be quite challenging.

Discussions and demonstrations paced the Business Law classes this year. Students heard Sgt. Robert Meeks, law officials and a representative from Lincoln Bank. A field trip to a circuit court trial and a classroom mock trial provided student participation.

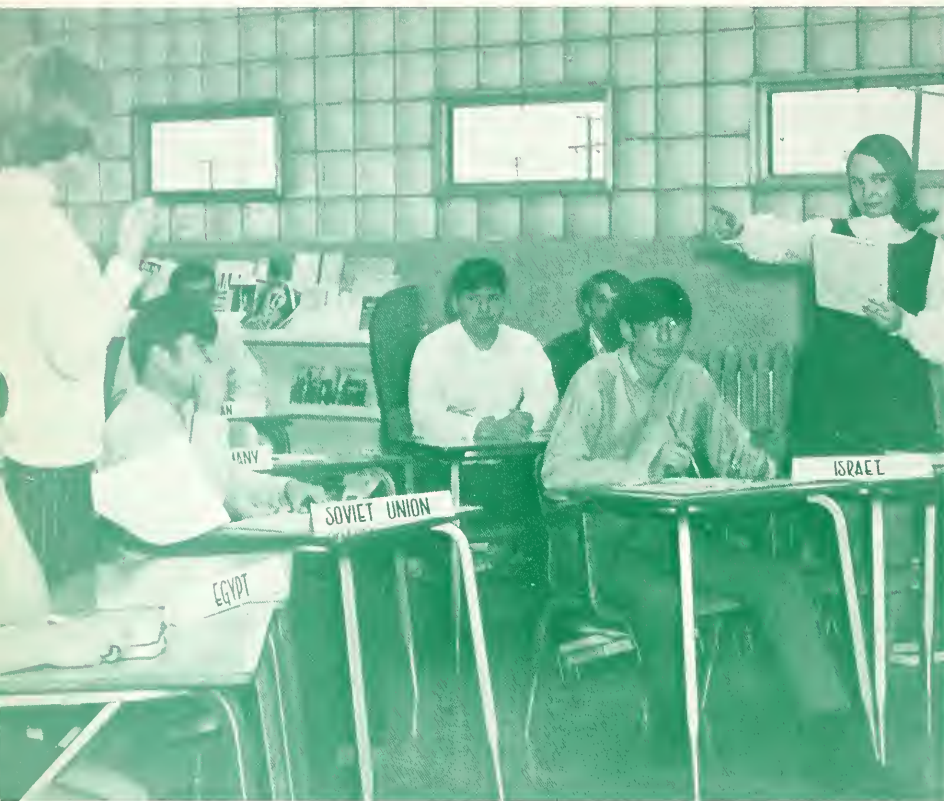

Paying bills and receiving money from the bank is a daily process in the model city sociology classes.

Junior Gerry Gaskill is strangled by Senior Dan Eakright with witnesses juniors Sue Lane and Diane Pempero for their Business Law class incident.

Junior Mary Jenkins figures out her scores for her Kuder preference tests which were taken in April.

Sophomores Debbie Urschel of Israel and Andrea Bouillon of the Soviet Union are having a disagreement in the Model United Nations in the World History class.

Coach Jerry Mitchel explains to his U. S. History class a basketball play used in a recent game.

House; senate ratify measures

Research papers, seminars, panel discussions and group endeavors were the major projects of the Social Studies Department.

Government classes' Model Legislature resolved all types of bills including lowering of taxes to controlling air pollution. Students were elected Speaker of the House or President of the Senate while the rest of the students were members of The House or Senate and sub-committees.

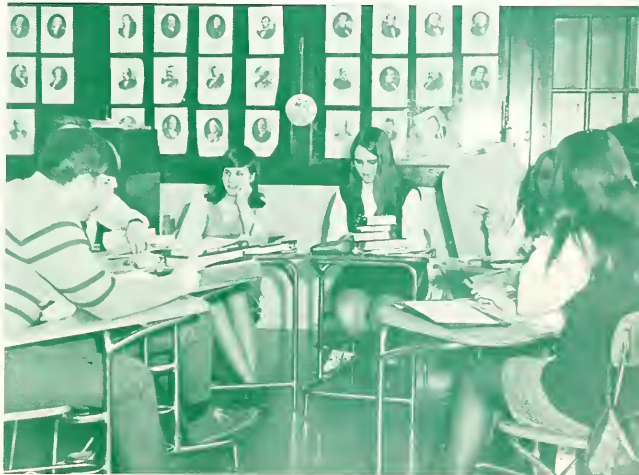

The World History classes again participated in a Model United Nations which attempted to work out a solution to the Middle East crisis.

Seminars and group discussions in United States history and Government classes provided a break in the usual lecture presentation.

State Representative William Latz spoke to the government classes on the problems of a Model Legislature.

Senior Mark Ringenberg and Juniors Dawn Kuhne and Jim Ringenberg find understanding different country relationships important to Social Studies.

Group discussions in government classes are a help in understanding the United States Constitution.

A ruler in Math class is a help for drawing straight lines to make congruent triangles.

Diana Bennett, senior, demonstrates to her class the correct way of making a square root.

Arithmeticians work problems

Confusion and panic struck as students tried to separate and retain jumbled formulas, complex equations, theorems, assumptions, postulates, logarithms and graphs.

"The square of the hypotenuse is equal to the square of the other sides" was a basic theorem learned by beginning geometry students.

First year Algebra and Geometry classes were stressing the importance of logical and reasonable thinking. Students who wished higher math as preparation for college found classes in second and third year Algebra and Trigonometry offered. These classes were opportunities to gain a more specialized knowledge for use in a world that is finding new uses of higher mathematics every day.

Measuring the flag pole for Geometry class are Juniors Donna Bahler and Randy Hall.

Learning the correct procedures in making a right triangle takes a lot of practice.

Science opens door to insight

Science has taken tremendous strides in the last twenty years. Man splits atoms, orbits the earth, lands on the moon, and replaces worn out human organs with plastic substitutes. Twenty years ago such things were not even imagined. In a world changing this quickly, it is essential that people have a basic scientific knowledge.

Through the study of the anatomy of representative plants by dissection and microscopic observation, high school botanists acquired an appreciation for the beauties of nature. Class discussion revolved around such topics as photosynthesis, cell structure and cell division.

Climbing trees became an every day occurrence as biology students tried for that perfect leaf for their required leaf collection.

Climbing a tree is one way of getting a perfect leaf for Biology class thinks Sophomore Kathy Fensler.

Feeling the different textures of the leaves in Botany class is Junior Lynn Beauscher.

Learning to use the computer in advanced chemistry is challenging and intriguing to the students.

Comparing the structure of the skulls in Zoology class are Juniors Dave Menze and Don Hoagland.

Junior Jan Schmidt is being careful in Basic Chemistry lab of not over heating her test tube.

Learning the correct way of using a microscope is important to the Science Department.

Science labs teach safety

Using the scientific method, Chemistry students observed and studied the properties of different elements. Through experimentation in the lab, students were able to understand chemical reactions.

Physics students put their mathematical abilities to use during the study of distance, displacement, speed, time, force and acceleration. Newton's Laws of Motion, kinetic and potential energy were taught by demonstrations, laboratory work, recitation and class lectures.

Three new plants were added to the greenhouse this year, including cactus, pineapple and passion flower.

Mary, the Zoology skeleton, was used by students to learn the different bones of a human and their relationship to other bones.

Language lab added to school

With the goal of being able to use and understand the English language to the highest degree, the English Department of NHHS offered courses in grammar and composition, literature, speech, journalism and Bible Literature.

Dangling modifiers, complex sentences, essays, novels and term papers kept grammarians and critics on their toes.

Reading, writing and speaking constituted the three main concepts of the languages taught at NHHS. Students had a choice of three languages in which to pursue their study, French, German and Latin.

Speech students found that as the weeks passed they could write and deliver entertaining and convincing speeches confidently.

Students in first year journalism classes learned newspaper techniques and developed them by writing stories for the newspaper.

As a reporter for the Herald, Junior Gerry Gaskill appears inquisitive while working on a story assignment.

Using themselves as words, students in Mrs. Bruening's English classes learned sentence structure by rearranging their standing order.

Proud of NHHS's English department, senior Steve Jackson shows some of the many awards he has earned in speech contests.

Senior Barb Nau applies a little dippity-do to senior Doug Robinette, while showing her speech class how to set hair.

Students have "life-like" offices

Dividing their program into three areas of study, steno, clerical and general business, the New Haven Business Department provided a solid background for students in the future.

Beginning business students were shown the need and importance of business records in bookkeeping classes. In general business training, they gained an understanding of the American market system by learning basic trade terms.

During their junior and senior year, business students continued their study of shorthand, bookkeeping and typing. In some classes, they took dictation, transcribed letters and learned how to operate different business machines.

Senior Vickie Morris studies her shorthand notes while typing a letter for class. This is only one activity out of many that is required in this course.

Working on projects submitted by area businesses, the steno lab girls learn various office procedures and are able to work on all types of business machines.

Steno lab officers, Vickie Morris, Debbie McCrory, Karen Melcher, Karen Giradot, Judy Overholt and Sandy Vachon along with their sponsor, Mrs. Virginia West, ranked high in the national OEA contest.

Girls find themselves without a minute to lose in learning office procedures in clerical and steno labs.

Coordination is basic to skill

Getting caught in the shower during a fire drill, getting locked out of class for being late and losing your gym suit on the way to school added to the "spice of life" for sophomores in physical education.

Physical fitness played an important part in gym classes, as girls and boys alike struggle through running programs to build up muscles.

Girls had sessions in basketball and body dynamics while the boys weight-lifted and did advanced exercises.

Whenever the weather permitted, students went outside to participate in softball, baseball, volleyball and soccer.

Learning the correct way to serve a volleyball in girl's physical education class is Sophomore Donna Bremer.

Playing ping-pong in class is relaxing to sophomore boys as they learn the fundamentals of the game.

Taking a skill test is Sophomore Kathy Springer.

Doing dance routines in class proved to be amusing.

Home Ec promotes creative living

Deep in the heritage of America is the importance of a strong family unit. Attainment of this goal depends greatly upon home management.

Such as figuring the area of a rug and knowing how to find the best buy in draperies were learning experiences in Home Management.

Child care classes deal with understanding the formative years of a baby's life.

First year seamstresses made blouses, skirts, pajamas and dresses while second year students tried their hands at something made out of corduroy, a bathrobe and a coat or a suit.

Boys' Foods taught boys the correct way to make everything from jello desserts to main dishes.

New ways to prepare corn and cauliflower were learned in the vegetable tasting lab.

Senior Irene Urick sets the table in foods class for their meal.

Senior Pat Newman models the clothes she made in sewing class.

NJROTC completes third year

Cleaning rifles for drill practice in NJROTC are Seniors Dave Hake and Vincent Buchtman.

Senior John Shive checks the condition of Senior Mike McMillen's rifle during rifle inspection.

Lt. Col. Robert Krippner personally inspects Juniors Mark Bartels, Richard Grayless and Ray Polleck.

Chief Don Steward explains how to plot a ship's course on a graph to his class in NJROTC.

Four new awards were initiated this year in the Navy Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps. The four included the American Legion award, the Reserve Officer Association award, the Daughters of the American Revolution award and the Navy Club award.

Marching on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the squads practiced for the half-time presentation of the colors at home basketball games.

Discipline, marksmanship, American military history, map reading and first aid were some of the things corps members learned in class. Courtesy and appearance played a major part in the grades of the boys. ROTC members were expected to abide by rules of good behavior and appearance at all times during the year.

Senior Stan Jacquay really cleans up on his work in metal shop after working on his project.

Practicing precision cutting on the metal lathes in machine shop are Juniors Stacy Beavers and Jeff Graves.

Being careful to observe all safety rules, Senior Don Stevens practices oxyacetylene welding in metals.

Sweeping floor part of shop

Living in a nation that is the World's industrial leader provides many job opportunities for people skilled in machine usage and repair.

Working with spinning lathes and crashing presses, Machine shop students gained a basic knowledge of the tool and die process used today in heavy industry.

Drafting gave students having an interest in architecture a chance to do some creative work in planning and actually building of a model home.

Shaping his project on the vertical milling machine in advanced machine shop is Senior Jon Cooper.

Students learn parts of autos

Students in the first semester of drafting, metal-working and wood-working shops studied the basic principles of craftsmanship and learned about the different types of equipment.

Second semester work involved problems in the application of the fundamentals in wood working. Those taking third and fourth semesters were occupied with the advanced techniques and complex equipment working with their projects.

Understanding the functions of the many systems found in an automobile, memorizing the parts of an engine and being able to repair disorders were the main objectives of auto mechanics.

Skills were developed through actual experience of building cabinets, light boards, gun racks and many other projects in wood shop.

Mr. Isch observes Junior Mike Chovan smoothing out his table with the sander in wood shop.

Fitting together the parts of a motorcycle engine in automobile shop is Senior Geoff Robinson.

Senior Victor Bradmueller and Junior Roy Allen are working with hand tools on their projects in wood shop.

Practicing rough finishing metal on the grinding wheel are Juniors Dennis Gick and Jerry McClain.

Gas masks worn by portraits

Chalk designs, commercial art portraits, Poppy posters and Fire Prevention posters were designed by the beginning art classes.

For Environment Day the beginning art classes placed gas masks over their self portraits, while the ceramic class painted the art room.

Ceramic classes made functional and non-functional pottery with an emphasis on design. Necklaces were made with silver on wood, while silver on silver and stone on silver were the materials used to design other types of jewelry.

Weaving, stitching and package designs were created by advanced art students. All work by the art classes were displayed either in the main hall or in the trophy case by the cafeteria.

Hours of work went into making this attractive barrett by Marianne Werling.

Finished ceramic artworks are displayed in the trophy case outside the cafeteria.

Finishing touches are added to the silver with the use of the rouge wheel to remove tiny scratches and to polish the silver.

Smoothness and uniformity are achieved in the wooden piece with the utilization of sandpaper in ceramics class.

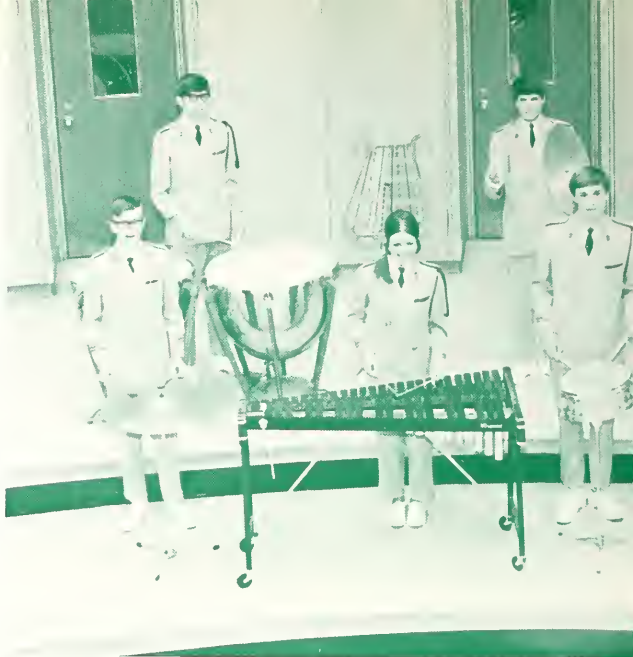

Unwanted corners and scratches are smoothed out of the wood with the use of the file.

Band arouses pride, spirit

Pride was experienced by all who were associated with New Haven High School when the Marching Band spiritedly paraded onto the football field or onto the basketball court and presented the Red, White and Blue pre-game ceremonies.

Playing for home basketball and football games, entertaining fans during halftime, performing at concerts in the Bulldog's Gymnasium were some of the main activities of the band. Mr. Paul Milliman, head of the instrumental music department, was responsible for selecting the music for performances and conducting throughout the year.

At the fall marching contest the band won the trophy for the best inspected band. Seventy per cent of the entries received first place at the State solo and ensemble contest and also received the first place at State Concert Band Contest.

Choir sang at Cathedral

Under the direction of Mr. Carl Nicholas, Concert Choir, Varsity Choir, Swing Choir and Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs practiced many hours to bring out the musical talents of NH students.

The combined choirs averaged two concerts per week and as many as four during the Christmas season. Concerts were performed at churches, clubs, meetings, conventions and parties.

Highlights of the year included "excellent" ratings by both Concert Choir and Boys' Glee Club at the state contest and a guest appearance by Concert Choir with the Saint Francis Choir at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Students in Girls' Glee Club and Varsity Choir learned the importance of correct breathing techniques and the best way to prepare a number.

New Haven Bulldogs highlighted a 2-5-2 season by upsetting the state's ninth ranked team and Northeast Indiana Conference foe, Columbia City.

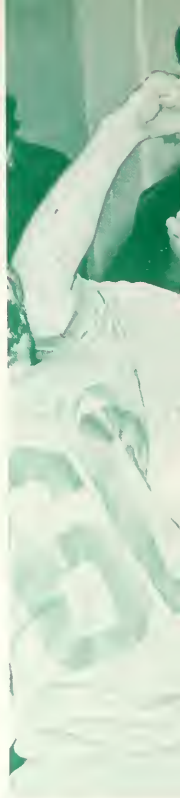

The gridgers were undefeated in conference play but because only three NEIC games were scheduled, they were not eligible for the crown. Selected to the all-conference third team were tackles Mike Stratton and Rob Davis and halfback Ed Foss. Receiving honorable mention were Doug Lohse, Ed Nix and Bob Rutledge.

By making 160 tackles this season, Stratton broke a 12-year-old record of 136. The year's leading scorer was Foss with 50 points.

Senior award winners were Rob Davis, most valuable offensive lineman; Doug Lohse, captain; Ed Foss, most valuable offensive player; Mike Stratton, captain and most valuable player and Charles Cox, best mental attitude.

Fans began feeling a Bulldog victory with less than a minute left to play in the exciting Columbia City game.

Tired but jubilant, the varsity celebrates in the locker room the upset of ninth ranked Columbia City.

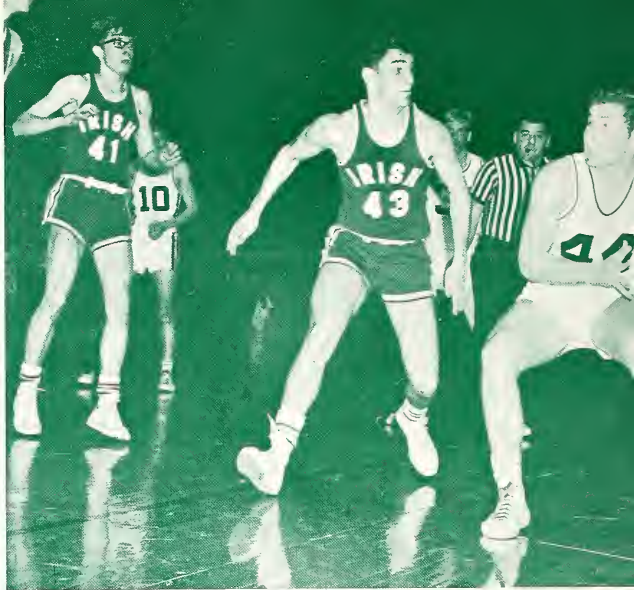

Attempting to put the Bulldogs ahead 7-0, kicker Ed Foss has his place kick blocked by a rushing lineman.

Roundballers register 3 wins

Losing to Central Catholic 76-62 in the sectional, the New Haven basketball team ended a disappointing and frustrating season.

The Bulldogs started the season winning three of their first eight. In the Huntington tournament the squad showed glimmers of consistency and cohesiveness in beating a tough Highland team 75-60. But after the Holiday tourney the basketballers failed to win a game.

Leading scorer and rebounder Bill Shumaker made the second all-conference team ending the season with 349 points for a 17.5 average.

Bill Shumaker, who pulled down 134 rebounds during the year, drives around his Central Catholic opponent.

Senior Jon Sauers gropes for a loose ball.

Stratton goes to state finals

Coach Stan Hostetler's wrestling team capped a sparkling 9-3 season by capturing New Haven's first sectional and regional crowns. The grapplers outdistanced the rest of the sectional field by over ten points to win handily and went on to tie for first with Concord in the regional.

Dave McDowell, Mike Stratton, Dan Eakright and Ed Foss won individual sectional championships and advanced to the regional. In the regional McDowell was third, Eakright and Foss second, and Stratton first, gaining a trip to the IHSAA finals in Indianapolis where he finished fourth.

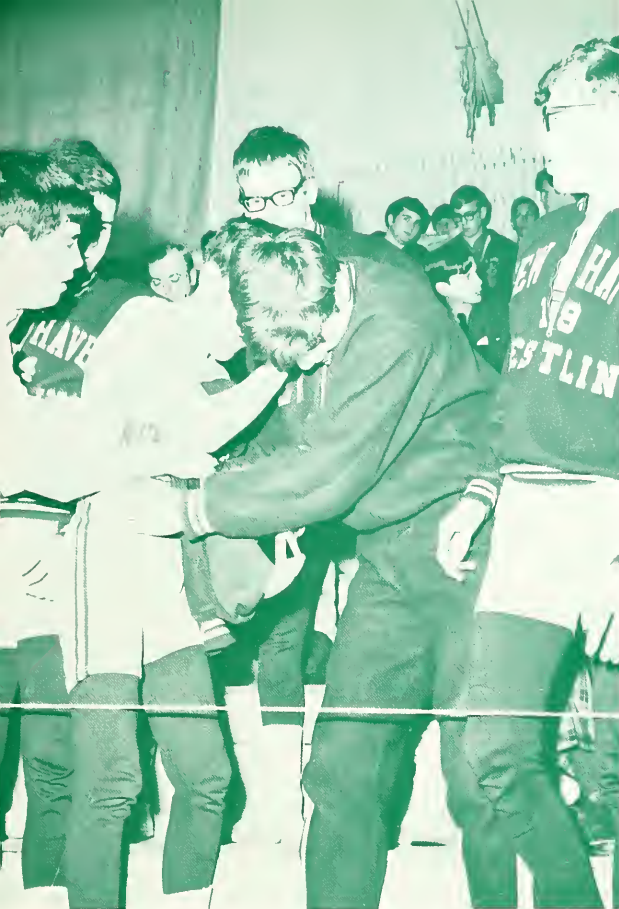

During the season the matmen won their own Holiday tournament and also the NEIC title with three men winning individual honors.

On the reserve team which compiled a 7-5 record, many promising underclassmen gained experience under the direction of Coach Ledford Benton.

Cindermen break 7 records

Winning the New Haven Relays for the second consecutive year, finishing second in the NEIC high-lighted Coach John Becker's first season as head track coach.

Pole vaulter Ed Foss earned his second trip to the IHSAA finals by vaulting 14'6" in the regional while breaking his own school record.

In the sectionals Dan Koonce, holder of the school record of 9:47.1 in the two mile, qualified for the regional by finishing third and juniors Jim Quandt and Bob Muth advanced in the 440 and 880 respectively.

School standards broken during the season were the 440 by senior Steve Bruce in 50.9; the 880 by Muth in 1:58.1; the 180 yard low hurdles by Jerry Craig in 20.5; the 880 relay of Dave Coats, Jerry Fuhrmann, Craig and Craig Chaney in 1:32.9 and the mile relay of Bruce, junior Kevin Mattingly, Quandt and Muth in 3:25.6.

Diamondmen compile 12 wins

Good hitting and good pitching were the keys to a successful New Haven baseball season. The Bulldogs finished with a 12-4 record in over-all games and 7-2 in the Northeastern Indiana Conference. This was good for a second place tie with South Adams.

Junior Jim Lahr led the pitching staff in regular-season play with four victories and no losses, while Bill Shumaker concluded with 1.27 earned run average.

Bob Rutledge was the leading batter with .414 average followed by Orlando Gonzalez with .407 and Don Wharton with .380. The over-all team batting average was a very good .328.

Coach Don Huml's squad won their first game in the sectional against Woodlan but then were eliminated in the semi-finals by the Heritage Patriots by the score of 6-2.

Linksmen finish season 7-8

New Haven's golf team had a respectable but unspectacular season finishing with a 7-8 record.

The Bulldogs, coached by Frank Clark, opened the year on a sour note, losing their first two meets to Bishop Luers and South.

Led by senior Ritchie Clark who shot a 33 and a 34, the linksmen won their next two matches against Bishop Dwenger and Concordia.

The locals then lost five of their next seven matches to Snider twice and to North, Carroll and Elmhurst once. They notched victories against Garrett and Woodlan in away meets.

Defeating Belmont and DeKalb, and losing to Elmhurst again and then finally beating South, the linksmen finished strong.

New Haven finished eighth in a sectional field of 22. Ritchie Clark, Doug Lohse, Cary Lonis and Bob Himelstein were the foursome that competed.

Card routines, new to clubs

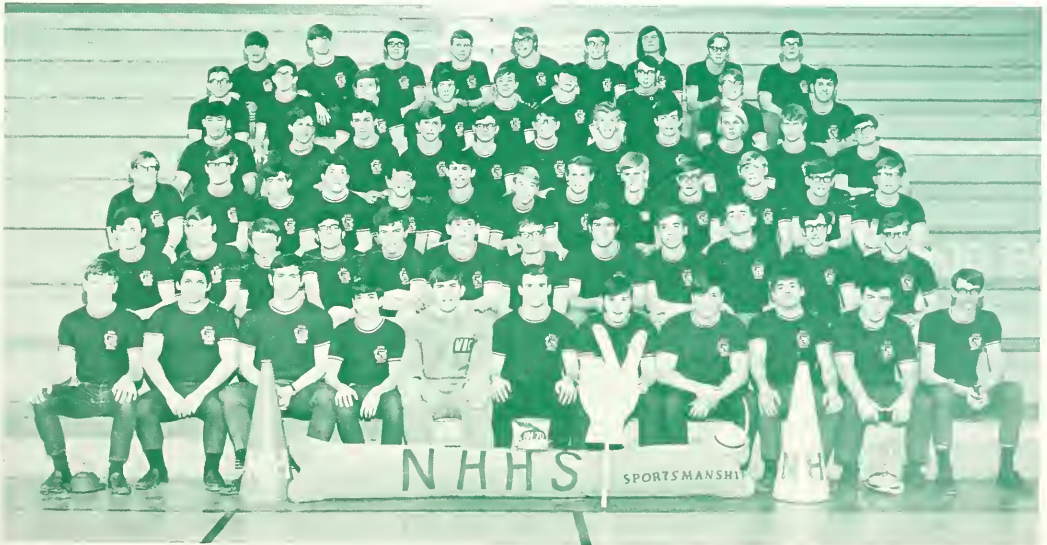

Exuberance, enthusiasm and great school spirit characterized this year's cheerleaders, Pep Block and Boys' Boosters.

During the summer the varsity cheerleaders participated in a two week workshop at Vincennes University. The cheerleaders captured the first place team trophy for competition and the "Sparkplug" award for spirit.

Seniors Jackie Snyder and Joyce Siegers were appointed as instructors to the National Cheerleaders Association. Jackie and Joyce were chosen from a field of over 100,000 applicants.

Besides colorful signs posted in the halls, new tops and cheers, the Pep Club added another dimension to its cheering. A card section was initiated and various words spelled at the home games. In the Homecoming float contest, Pep Club and Boys Boosters copped third place.

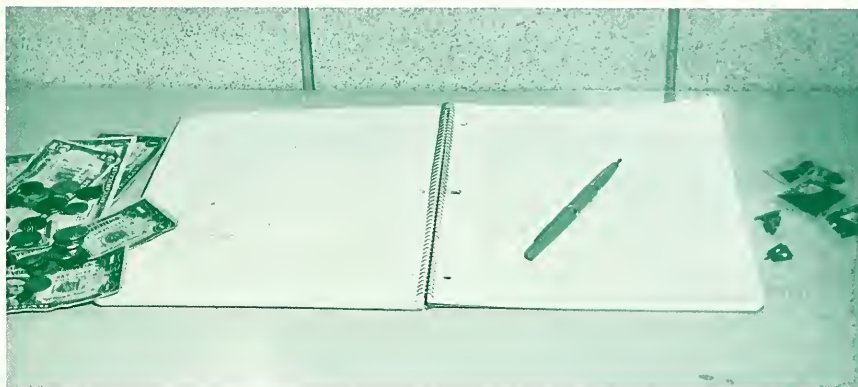

Varsity cheerleaders are Jackie Snyder, Linda Burczak, Kim Netherland, Lana Baker and Joyce Siegers.

Congress members adopt orphan

With Homecoming '69 as their initial project, Student Congress' efforts included the formation of the Courtesy Corps and a noon canteen.

With the community in mind, Congress directed the collection of $2,000 for area families in need during the Christmas season. After yuletide, they adopted a Southern orphan.

On the school scene, Congress constructed an activities calendar, purchased flags for classrooms, erected a flag pole, sponsored a school flag and victory pennant design contest and worked on a revised Constitution.

Soccer games provided keen competition for the three language clubs and permitted them an outlet from usual club activities and endeavors.

All three had similar projects including homecoming parade entries, Sadie Hawkins booths, field trips, parties, banquets and initiations.

When Masque and Gavel fall try-outs were over and five people were admitted bringing the total membership to 35, try-outs were held for the one-act play, "The Little Red Schoolhouse" which was presented throughout the city at many civic functions and at the New Haven Fine Arts Fair.

Four hectic months, December through March, found members building sets, gathering props and memorizing lines for the annual three-act play, "If a Man Answers." The play was presented to the public in the Junior High School Auditorium March 5, 6 and 7.

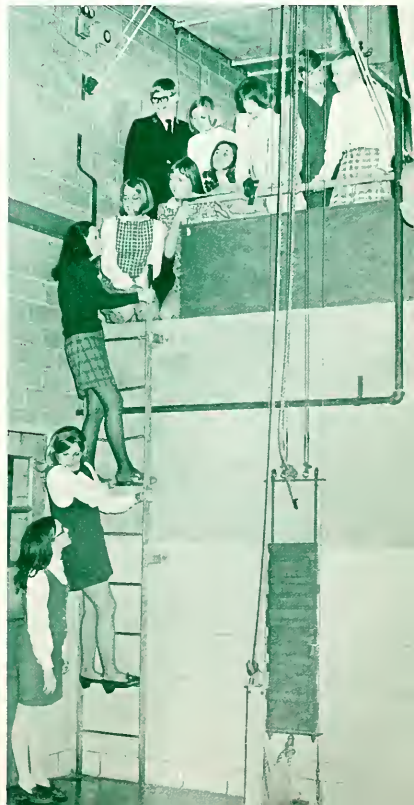

The humorous Francis Awards were presented at the April 2 ticket banquet and graduating seniors received their trophies at the May 14 banquet.

Books, films lead clubs

New Haven's library was filled to capacity with 11,000 volumes, about 150 magazines and 300 records.

Dodging falling books, straightening shelves and filing magazines were tasks faced by the 70 student volunteers aiding Mrs. Luann Beaman.

Atheum Club, organized by the volunteers, sponsored an all school film to raise money for new materials.

Social Studies Club's meetings consisted of films and discussions.

A Christmas party and a Country Fair booth filled the activity calendar.

Social Studies Club members are Harry Zimmerman, Allan South, Kathy Rondot and Dee Lorraine sponsored by Mr. Beugnot.

Atheum Club members are Connie Jett, Trudi Tope, Pam Spears, Loha Murphy, Shirley White, Pat Newman, Marilyn Nulf, Steve Bouse, Debby McCrory, Gary Helmke, Georgia Ames, Diane Swain and Linda Vinson.

Eloquent oratory—goal of NFL

Finishing third in all-state competition, the NFL team experienced a victorious season. Individual speakers and debaters represented NHHS well in local and state meets. Members captured 12 trophies and 80 ribbons.

A record three seniors, Joe Shull, Steve Jackson and Jim Kart, received the Campbell Trophy award. The announcement of these awards and initiation of senior members took place at the spring banquet on May 7.

Arts club attends cultural events

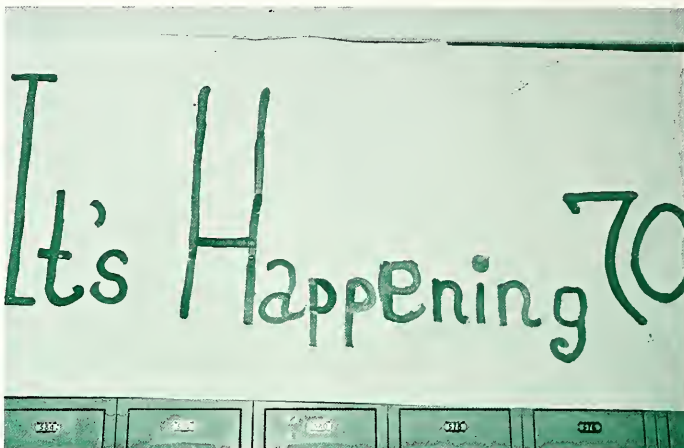

Composed primarily of band and choir members, Fine Arts Club had a reduced activity schedule due to band-choir concerts and contests.

Happening '70, the club's annual talent show, featured singing, dancing and various comedy routines. Unfortunately, the show was plagued by finals resulting in a small audience.

A trip to Muncie to see Ball State's production of "Brigadoon" enabled members to compare a university's show with New Haven's '69 performance.

Ending the year's activities in April were a "Fish Pond" booth at the Sadie Hawkins County Fair and the Fine Arts Fair co-sponsored with the PTA.

Clubs prepare for business world

Selling candy, listening to speakers, and taking tours were some of the many varied activities in which New Haven's business clubs, FBIA and OEA, participated.

Speakers from Magnavox and Indiana University acquainted the members with career opportunities in the area.

By selling candy, OEA members helped to raise enough money to send six girls to the National Convention held in Fort Worth, Texas.

Practice makes perfect for Barb Forester, Cheryl Braley, Georgia Odum, Karen Soderquest, Illene Urlick, Pam Saylor, Jenny Lynch, Ruth Garren, Betty Caudle, Jody Eckert, Charlene Prine, Sue Richards, Cindy Zollinger, Peg Lynch and Shelia McCague.

OEA officers are Kathy Graham (Secy.), Pat Cain (Treas.), Nancy Fortman (V.P.) and Carol Pearson (Pres.).

Clubs prepare for future occupations

New Haven's chapter of FTA served the faculty throughout the year.

At Christmas time, members held a tea for the faculty and made favors as they did every month.

Serving as teaching assistants, teachers received much needed help with paper grading and recording.

Activities were highlighted with a jail at the Sadie Hawkins Fair.

To increase their treasury, the girls sold Memory Record Books.

69-70 was filled with service and learning for FNC.

Speakers from the fields of practical nursing and X-ray technology discussed career opportunities.

Touring Johnny Appleseed gave the girls a new insight in the field of mental health.

Raising money with a car wash and paper drive increased the club's treasury for the banquet, April 24.

Future Nurses Club members are Sheryl Moore, Patty Beckman, Sally Trulock, Sherry Gibson, Brenda Regenold (Secy.), Christina Clem, Joyce Clem, Tammy Keener (Treas.), Sharon Beuchel (Pres.), and Jody Bojrab.

Senior members of Future Teachers of America are Muriel Roth, Gwen Scheeler, Janet Bremer, Bev Hege, Rose Hower, Barb Hege, Jackie Doell (Secy.), Lisa Dent, Cheryl Ellenberger, Jan Nrieno, Trudy Pensinger (V.P.), Janet Richhart, Cindy Shaeffer, Linda Wick, Bonnie Hunnings (Treas.) and Cheryl Potter (Pres.).

Hi-Y officers are Jim Kelty (Pres.), Grant Messman (V.P.), Tom Neusius (Secy.) and Mark Ringenberg (Treas.).

Sorting books for the Y-Teens project are Nancy Melcher, Janet McCrea, Karen Melcher, Dawn Kuhne, Gwen Kruse and Sue Stumpf.

Fun, help club goals

Hi-Y and Y-Teen, the Fort Wayne "Y's" high school chapters, aided the community with many service projects.

At the Holiday season, Y-Teen members went caroling to collect food for the three families they adopted last year. Richmond Mental Hospital received books donated by the girls and the Armchair Project was aided by contributions of homemade cookies.

Hi-Y disbanded regular meetings and formed committees in hopes of reorganizing next year.

Once again, the boys sponsored the school's annual Easter Assembly featuring the concert choir.

Five boys attended the Model Legislature at Indianapolis in April to become better informed on governmental proceedings.

Y-Teen members attending the tea are Mary Schulties, Luann Bollinger, Diane Basile (Secy.), Donna Tews (Treas.), Orion Trickey, Dawn Kuhne (V.P.), Nancy Budde (Pres.), Barbara Hege, Bev Hege and Gwen Kruse.

Bowling League goes co-ed

Bowling League, New Haven's only co-educational sports club held their weekly meetings at Hillcrest Lanes where club members had the opportunity to bowl three league games.

The 52 members, divided into 13 teams of 4 were sponsored by Mr. John Dickmeyer and Rod Van Zant.

An annual spring banquet was held where individual awards were presented to the highest scorers.

Keeping the scores are Steve Roper, Mike Leiter, Darrell Carlson, Dan Cook, Gordon McHenry, Jim Harter, Bob Himmelstein and Ernie Greenwood.

Bowling is Sophomore Glenita Printup.

Selecting the proper weight ball is important for Ron Neuenschwander, Doug Robinette, Brian Buck and Larry Mynett.

Riflemen develop shooting skills

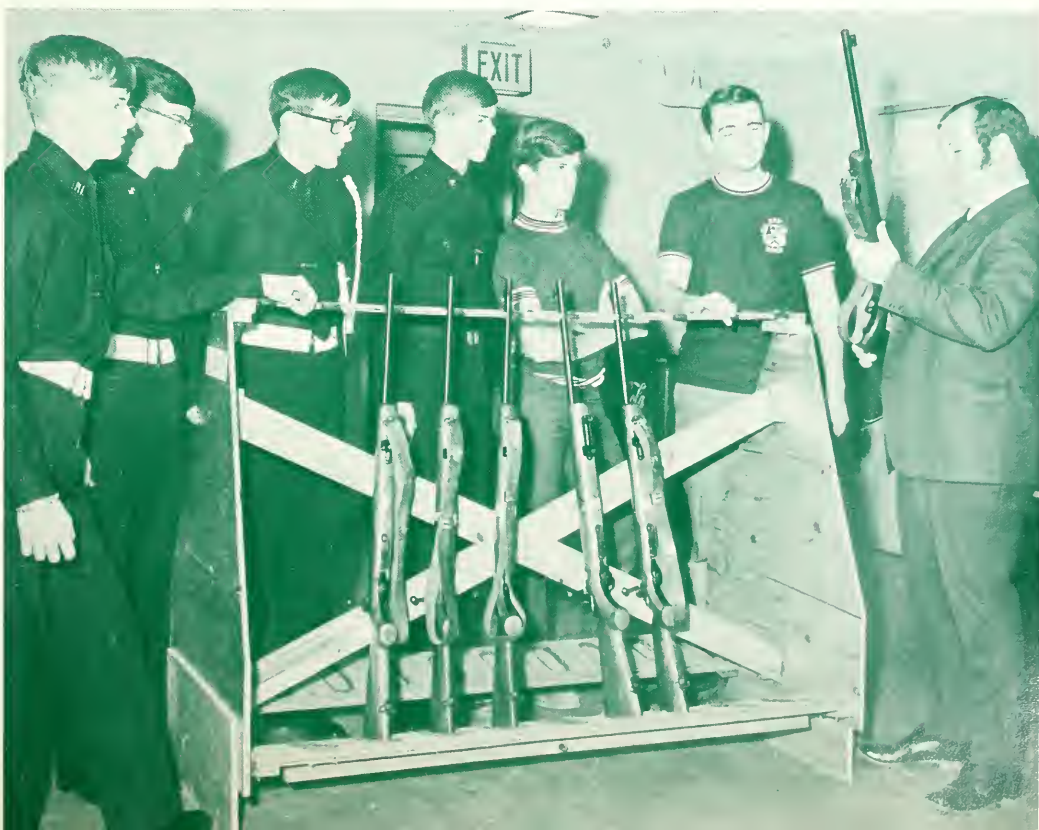

Rifle Club, chartered by the National Rifle Association, was advised by Mr. Hively from the Old Fort Rifle and Pistol Club.

Due to conflicts with the wrestling team over the range, active shooting was drastically cut which kept the club from participating in state championship matches. However, matches were held with Concordia, South Adams and the Air National Guard.

Preparing for active shooting on the range are riflemen Hal Springer, Steve Everson, Steve Spohr, Carl Hendrickson, John Larsen and Bob Spencer.

Receiving instructions on rifle technique and cleaning are Rifle Club members John Shive, Vince Buchtman, Craig Campbell, Howard Ericson, John Hershey and Ken Filler sponsored by Mr. Reynolds.

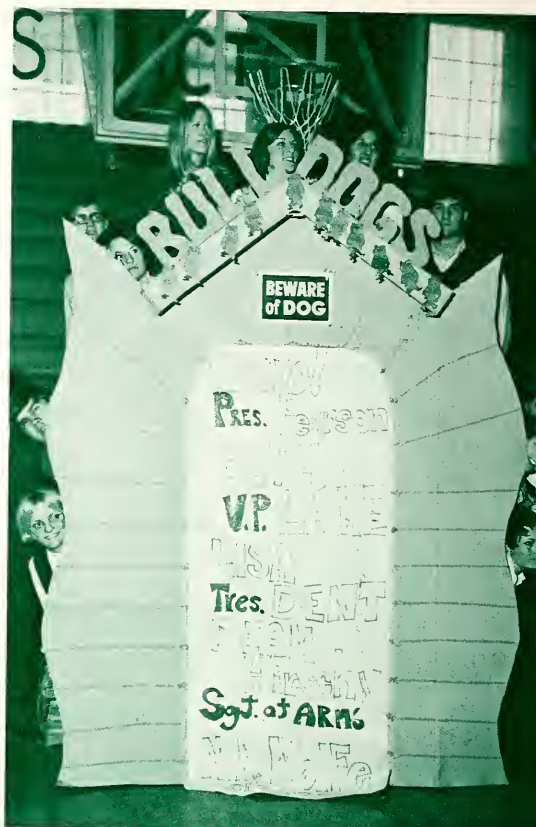

Karen Girardot, Dave Lazzar, Dean Hirschy, Kathy Taylor, Beth Lake, Sandy Roemer, Jan Richhart, Doug Lohse, Carol Pearson, Rosie Hower and Tami Zimmerman.

D. Eakright, C. Chaney, J. Shull, M. Lazenby, D. Koonce, S. Jacquay, V. Putman, R. Ternet, R. Pfeiffer, S. Wyman, D. Lohse, J. Sauers, R. Clark, R. Davis, M. Ringenberg, T. Patton.

J. Holt, J. Guillow, S. Horman, J. Lahr, M. Barrientos, B. Muth, J. Fuhrman, G. Thorton, T. Hoepfner and K. McKenzie.

Sports council initiates doghouse

For Lettermens' Club, sponsoring a WOWO Air Ace—faculty game was the biggest project of the school year. The game's profit was used to purchase a video-tape machine.

Closing the season at the April 25 banquet was guest speaker, Bob Johnson all pro center and captain of the Cincinnati Bengals.

Continuing their tradition, Sportsman-ship Council sponsored the Homecoming bonfire and initiated a doghouse which the basketball team burst through before each home game.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes participated in church activities and printed basketball game programs to raise money for summer camp.

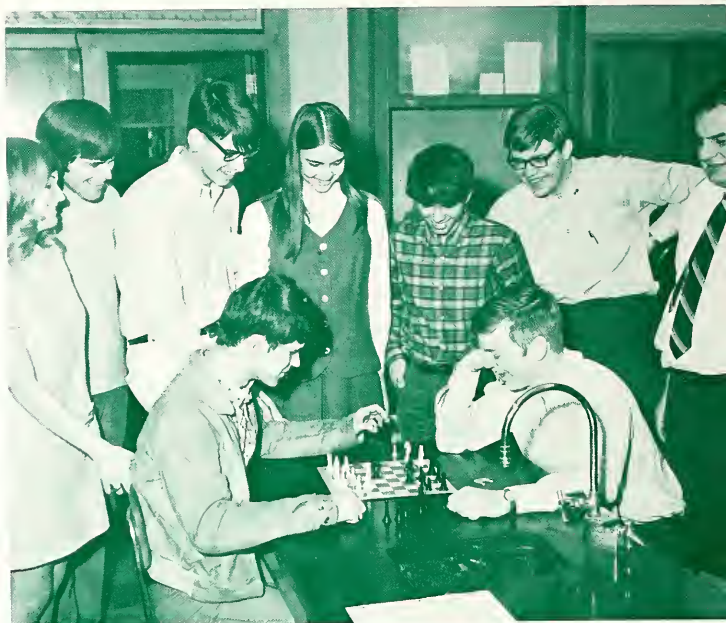

Lana Baker, Karla Doty, Kathi Williams, Joyce Siegers, Kim Netherland, Jackie Snyder, Nancy Budde, Brenda Shaffer, Dan Eakright, Linda Burczak, Linda Flora, Melanie Armstrong, Tony Patton, Jim Kratzat and Kerry Hoepfner.

Lynn Stroble, Gerry Gaskill, Kris Shaffer, Kay Sorg, Sandy Ernst, Diane Taylor, Becky Robinson, Val Oliver, Kathy Leed, Karen Nichter, Connie Perrine, Nancy Brandt and Bill Shumaker.

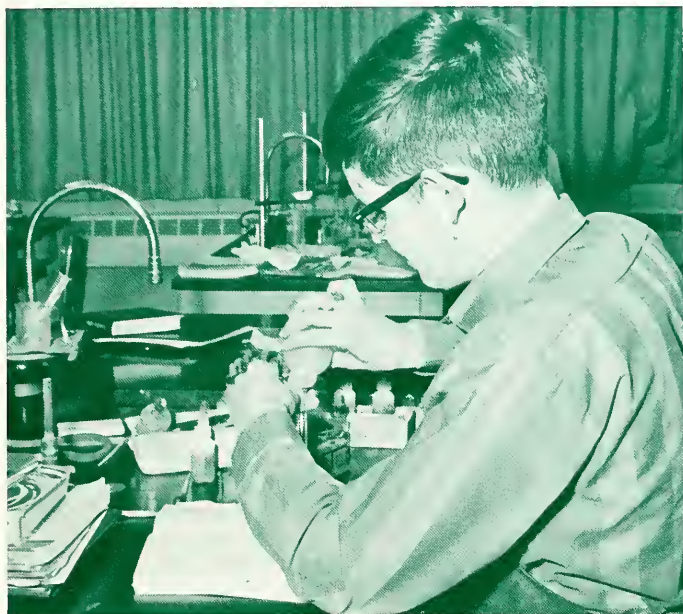

Chess Club members are Jim Kart, Bill Barlow, Dee Louraine, Mike Schnelker, Harry Zimmerman, Kathy Rondot, Alan South, Gary Helmke and Mr. Stephan.

Executive officers of Science Club are Art Percy, Glenn Emley, Rick Kirk, Paul Jaessing, Ron Ternet, Clark May, Gail Emley, Paul Hambrock and Rick Haynie.

Science Club forms many sections

Adoption of a new constitution and the Astronomy, Photography, Ichthyology and ESP sections' activities highlighted Science Club's year.

Members gained scientific knowledge and information on tours to Purdue University and the I.U. Medical Center. Career opportunities were also explained with job possibilities.

On the social side, the club held an autumn picnic at the Conservation Club and their annual spring banquet at Hall's Smorgasbord.

Studying chess was the objective of Chess Club. Regular and post season trophies were won by Senior Jim Kart. Unfortunately, the members were unable to attend the state meet.

Senior Vince Buchtman prepares chemicals.

Science Club members are Glenn Emley, Gail Emley, Ken Johnson, Art Percy, Paul Hambrock, Georgia Ames, Rick Kirk, Bob Jones, Martha Melon, Kathy Rondot and Harry Zimmerman.

Practice aids future homemakers

Relevant education was at work in Home Economics Club, where interested girls had an opportunity to expand and apply their homemaking skills outside of the classroom.

In addition to learning the basics of sewing and cooking, the girls received tips on hair styles, clothing and handling budgets.

A February Style Show presented to the junior and senior high home economics classes demonstrated what can be done with patterns and gave the girls a first-hand modeling experience.

Home Economics Club members are Jackie Zobrosky, Martha Mellon, Nancy Service, Lisa Harper, Terri Batdorf, Janet Bade, Lupe Sanchez, Janet Moyer, Diane Jackson, Nancy Wacker, Donna Bremer, Pam Gantz and Evelyn Griffin sponsored by Mrs. Deuter.

Members of the Home Economics Club are Diane Swain, Linda Reeves, Kathy Klenke, Sue Stumpf, Rose Hower, Venus Rath, Peggy Bair and Sue Rowe sponsored by Mrs. Mildred Colderbank.

GAA provides organized recreation

Girls' Athletic Association, GAA, provided its members with the opportunity to take part in activities for fun and competition. Physical fitness, leadership and co-operation were common goals among the girls.

Interscholastic sports included basketball, volleyball and softball. Participation in organized games allowed for teamwork and a closer group feeling among the girls.

Straining for the ball in a volleyball game are Girls' Athletic Association members Doris Grave, Deloris Grave, Carol Gear, Sharon Fox, Sue Stumpf and Terri Batdorf.

Eagerly awaiting the tip-off at a weekly basketball game are Girls' Athletic Association members Sandy Bair, Jan Bultemeier, Nancy Baxter, Debbie Brockway, Cindy Loneragan, Ruth Quandt, Sharon Miller, Vicki Rodemeyer and Charlene Weileman sponsored by Miss Charlotte Clark.

Typists for the Herald are Jane Ashenfelter, Brenda Shaffer, Cheryl Braley, Diane Rehm and Nancy Gaskill.

Vision IV members are Luann Barnes, Debbie Lanning, Kathy Stone, Merry Broughton, Debby Mattice, Melanie McGuire and Debbie Tomlinson sponsored by Mr. Wade.

Journalists combine skill, creativity

Rushing to meet the ever present press-time deadline, Herald staff members produced 19 issues of the bi-weekly student newspaper.

Acquisition of type composition equipment enabled the staff to increase the paper to eight pages and cut previous printing costs by two-thirds.

Student interest in the Herald increased due, in part, to better photo coverage, lively letters to the editor and debatable opinion columns.

On the other hand, lack of student support threatened the fourth year of NHHS's literary magazine, Vision. However, a small group of ardent workers were determined to produce the magazine of essays and poems.

Herald editorial staff members are Teresa Gattton, Nancy Shifley, Kathi Tourin, Paul Strouts and Kathy Merchant.

Business staff members for the Herald are Kathy Klenke, Trish Janson, Beverly Hege and Barbara Hege.

Distinct personalities, definite ideas, different goals and achievements define students.

Individuals

The ultimate goal is education, but there the similarity ends. For some it is to be outstanding; for others, identity, individuality. For the faculty, it is contributing to student success.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS—(Front row) Mr. William Wise, Mr. Carlton Giant, Mrs. Wilberta Edgington, Dr. Richard Miller. (Row two) Mr. Donald Gehrig, Mr. Ray Lehman, Mr. John Reifsnider, Mr. Ralph Ferguson, Mr. Robert Holt.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL—(Front row) Mr. Frank Clark, Mr. Paul Armstrong, Mr. Maynard Henwood, Mr. Don Huml, Mr. Armond Ball. (Row two) Mr. Jerry Mitchel, Mr. John Becker, Mr. Carl Sipe, Mr. Ledford Benton, Mr. Pat Monaghan, Mr. Stan Hostetler, Mr. Fred Cass.

Advisors set, control policies

Dr. Richard Miller, superintendent of East Allen County Schools, the members of the seven member school board and the administrative assistants have worked diligently throughout the school year to supply the needs of a growing community.

To help give equal opportunities to all individuals so they may attain maximum emotional, mental, physical and social development for a contributing role in a changing society, is the main objective of the school board. The board meets twice monthly to set school policies.

Working on the school monetary budget, interviewing prospective teachers and staff members and administering the established policies of the school board are only a few of the jobs of the administrative assistants directed by Dr. Miller.

Rules, regulations and honors given for outstanding athletic achievements and accomplishments at New Haven are awarded by the Athletic Council. Principal Maynard Henwood meets with all the athletic coaches at their bi-weekly meetings.

SUPERINTENDENT—Dr. Richard Miller

SCHOOL BOARD—(Front row) Mr. Tom Kurtz, Mr. Chris Roemke, Mrs. Jeanne Miller. (Row two) Mr. Charles Reynolds, Mr. Gordon Jackson, Mr. Chester Schmidt, Mr. Richard Hartigan.

It is the task of Assistant Principal Mr. Michael Bonahoom and Principal Mr. Maynard Henwood to coordinate all aspects of the school.

Setting up the sports schedules is one of the jobs of Mr. Paul Armstrong, Athletic Director.

Aiding students, job for many

Keeping schedules straight and helping students with their personal problems is one of the jobs of the guidance staff, who are Mrs. Virginia West, Mrs. Etta Wolf, Mr. Paul Armstrong, Mr. Verl Oberlin, Mr. Paul Goegelein.

It takes four full time secretaries, Miss Mary Schwen, Mrs. Carol Symonds, Mrs. Marie Vondran, and Mrs. Iona Richhart, to assist the guidance personnel and the principal in the day to day operations at New Haven.

Planning, preparing and serving daily meals to the 1300 New Havenites, is the job of the 10 cooks.

Class of "70" looks to future

Eager to begin their final year, the new Seniors flocked back to NHHS in September 1969.

The year was soon filled with college applications, acceptances and rejections. Thoughts of the draft and marriage also prevailed as 18th birthdays came and engagements were announced.

Thoughts of bridal gowns, however, didn't detract from Senior spirit or support. The mysterious "Senior Seven" continued to boost morale and wish luck to the various teams throughout the year. The class produced the traditional Sadie Hawkins dance on April 3. May 28th graduation climaxed the year.

Senior Council: C. Lonis, J. Critell, D. Whyte, R. Bearman, J. Kilty, G. Emley, C. Potter, C. Grubb, T. Zimmerman, C. Pearson, S. Bliss, N. Budde, C. Newhall, P. Lynch, B. Hunnings, M. Stark, and S. Roemer.

Spending time in the "cooler" are Senior Class officers Doug Beatty (Pres.), Kathy Taylor (Treas.), Jan Richhart (Secy.), and Jill Schmidt (V-P).

Varied activities typify year

Juniors capture starring roles

Juniors returned to school in the fall of 1969 to find themselves one step higher on the ladder of educational success. Their lives soon settled into a routine of taking tests, writing themes, and attending extra-curricular activities.

The "middle-men" reached to new heights of success by capturing the leads in the all school production of "My Fair Lady" and the Masque and Gavel three-act "If a Man Answers."

Various tests took up '71'ers time. They were kept busy with the PSAT in October, the Iowa Achievement Tests in November, and the SAT in May.

As always a hard year of preparation, financing, and producing was climaxed by the Junior prom which was held at the Scottish Rite in May.

Exhibiting fun-loving spirit and artistic ability are Junior officers: Rosie Chapman (Secy.), Kay Sorg (V-P), Grant Wylie (Pres.), and Jan Schmidt (Treas.).

Juniors exhibited much enthusiasm and spirit while building their float, "Tear 'Em Up", which won third place in the judging of class floats.

One of the newest additions to New Haven's clean-up project is carefully examined by Junior Council members: P. Niccum, L. Cockrum, S. Trulock, D. Hill, L. Flora, M. Johnson, S. Sievers, M. Weigand, S. Bowers, C. May, L. Harper, G. Kruse, B. Robinson, K. Kokinakis, S. Boese, M. Alber, and D. Andersen.

Juniors mature and gain status

In order to achieve good grade averages in their required U.S. history course, Juniors Bobbi Voirol and Harry Quandt do some vital last minute cramming.

A common sight in south Fort Wayne is Junior Glenn Hallberg being taken for a walk by his dog, Toby.

Longer locks prove time consuming to Junior Bob Crain.

Semester's end brings many things including a general clean-up, throw-out day as portrayed by Junior Dan Dohm.

One of the lucky ones who got a seat, Junior Terry Osborn stops for "the pause that refreshes."

Disillusioned Sophomores succeed

Great expectations of a glamorous high school life, were quickly changed as the new group of sophomores came down to earth on their first day of the '69-'70 school year. An exasperating difference exists between a junior high "top man" and a "lowlie" in high school.

Adjustments that must be made are very involved. Schedule planning, class rotation, confusing room numbers, and adapting to new teaching methods all require patience and stamina.

Of course, youth quickly adjusted to new circumstances, and the sophomores were soon in the middle of all the activities and bustle of high school life.

After school activities cause vehicle problems for Sophomore officers: D. Roemer, D. Jury, and M. Miller.

Delighted by the first snowfall are Sophomore Council members: S. Wheeler, C. Kern, M. Schultheis, T. Stumpf, C. Arnold, C. Mailand, B. Critell, S. Hartwig, K. Nichter, and D. Butler.

“Lowlies” supply enthusiasm, spirit

Exercising their athletic ability and championship form are sophomores Dana Lawson and Greg Poorman.

Current bubble gum blower champion, Sophomore Nancy Vess is challenged by Sophomore Rick Dommer.

Sophomore Vera Garren knows all about the troubles of a stalled engine and a "frozen" telephone.

For Sophomores Nancy Melcher and Dan Nichter, selecting a class ring involves a major decision.

New Havenites saw goods and services as pleasures or necessities.

Advertising

Manufacturers recognized teens as the current trend-setters in the commercial world and advertised to attract them.

Supplemented with part-time jobs and allowances, teen-age consumers purchased the best possible merchandise for their money.

To Seniors Ron Neuenschwander and Jim Rae Dick's Standard Station is a sight for sore eyes.

Sophomores Kevin Campbell and Ron Grostenfon watch intently as Norm's Point Service works on a car.

Only a block from the High School, Girardot's is always busy with reliable auto service.

Stations promote safe driving

Everyone at New Haven knows that without the help of our friendly service stations it would be almost impossible to maintain such a hectic pace. Club activities don't stop for stalled engines and a flat tire is more than a disaster to a girl.

Stations like GIRARDOT'S TEXACO have served the students with dependable car maintenance for a long time. Located at 634 Broadway in New Haven and only a block from the school, it was Don Girardot who came to the rescue when a car ran out of gas in the '68 Homecoming Parade. But gas is by no means where his services stop. Expert service proves that you can truly trust your car to the man who wears the star.

Call him at 749-8409.

NORM'S POINT MARATHON SERVICE, 445 Lincoln Highway West New Haven, is another experienced local station. Offering efficient service as well as outstanding car up-keep, Norm or any one of his courteous staff is always ready and willing to serve you. Contact him at 749-9127.

DICK'S STANDARD STATION across from John Young Stadium on Highway 30 is a ready and reliable center for car care. Their responsible services promise customers not only a well running car but safer driving. Telephone him at 749-9780.

Village Shoe store will fit any foot. Even Junior Jackie Doell's.

Juniors Pam Schinnerer and Sharon Stoller Enjoy Delux Cleaner's fast service.

Sally Trulock helps Dave Wagner pick out a sweater at Trulock's Men Store.

Even Bulldogs need well-fit clothing. Denny Becker of Bennett's Clothing helps fit Dave Lazzer, New Haven's Vic the Bulldog.

Local stores suit student body

Good grooming is important at New Haven. Whether you're wearing the latest in fashion or last year's scuffed loafers the stress is placed on individuality. Students chose clothing that suited their personalities and individual needs. And above all neatness reigns supreme.

BENNETT'S CLOTHING, Lincoln Highway East, 749-8273, offers such an opportunity for young men. Responsible clerks are always on the job to help with selections and alterations.

HUNT REALTY INC., 622 Broadway New Haven, is an outstanding as well as courteous center for local realty problems or questions. Contact Don Hunt at 749-9397.

A-B SHOE STORE, 718 Broadway in New Haven, is always concerned with proper fit when showing you the most up to date styles in footwear. Always at your service you can contact them Monday thru Friday by calling 749-8464.

John Bremer clears the walk for customers at Bremer's Home and Garden Center.

Jim McRae takes it easy to watch television on the couch rack in at Ruhl's Home Furnishings on Broadway here in New Haven.

Jan Winicker looks over Rudy's display for future homemakers.

For expert service in realty, senior Kathy Klenke knows she can depend on Dan Rhodes.

Junior Marie Anastasia has discovered that Murphy Insurance is the place to go for quality coverage.

Tom Walker of Walker's House of Photography sets up an advertising picture with junior Ken Kokinakis.

Junior Marty Moord learns how Moon Printing sets up print for the ALLEN COUNTY TIMES.

Business firms challenge youth

Teenagers need a challenge to progress and local firms offer them this challenge. Whether it's a job opportunity or the chance to prove themselves, businessmen are always willing to add their part to the growth and development of individuals.

DAN RHODES AGENCY, on Oxford across from McMillan Park in Fort Wayne, offers reliable advice in insurance and realty service.

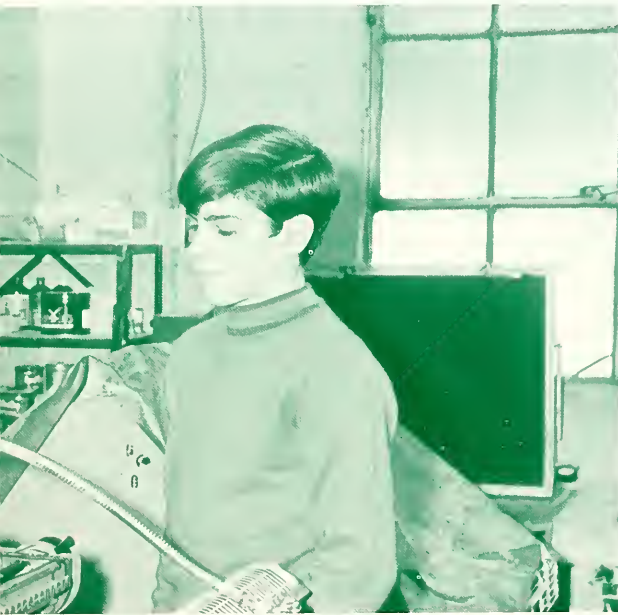

MOON PRINTING, 621 Broadway in New Haven, serves our own New Haven Herald by printing the headlines and pictures which later appear in the semi-weekly addition. Call them at 749-9538.

MURPHY INSURANCE at 626 Broadway in New Haven provides students with dependable information as to life and car insurance, both of which are of interest to high school students.

This year two fine photography studios have served the student body. Often times their hard work goes unnoticed yet many times they have come to the rescue of the Herald and the Mirage.

ROBERT'S STUDIO, 1014 Ewing Street in Fort Wayne, did this year's underclassmen pictures. This seemingly small task entails pictures of nearly one thousand students.

WALKER'S HOUSE OF PHOTOGRAPHY, 516 W. Washington in Fort Wayne, not only did senior pictures but also photographer Tom Walker took pictures at games, plays, special events and at countless other times when there was a demand for pictures. Truly the school owes him a great amount of thanks.

Debbie Fullerton, junior, is a cooperative model for Robert's Studio.

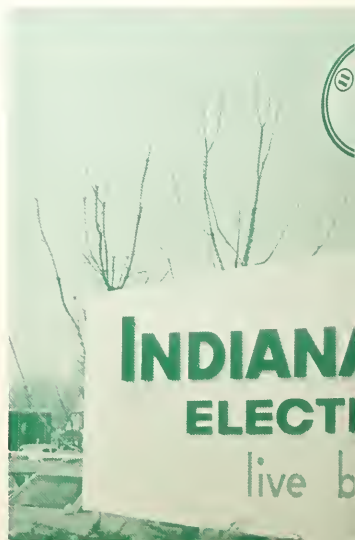

Mr. Van Kirk shows Dennis Sheron, senior, a few of the things involved in buying land.

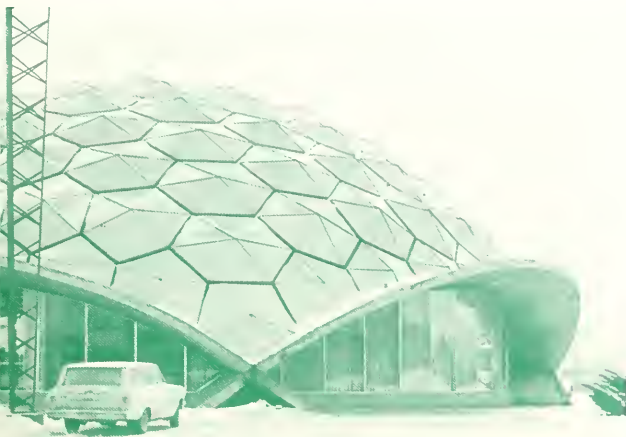

Seniors Cheryl Knox and Bob Himmelstein enjoy ice cream from Dan Purvis.

Many a New Haven couple has spent a Saturday evening at the Holiday Theatre.

People's Trust and Savings Company is a modern bank to meet the needs of a modern society.

I & M Electric Company proudly serves the greater Fort Wayne area.

Local shops provide break

To a high school student it's important to be able to get away from it all. Whether it's by themselves or with the group, conversation can always be found at one of the many local hangouts.

CONEY KING is one such a place. Only a block from the school, good food and good conversation are among its finer qualities.

Now with five modern stores to serve you DAN PURVIS DRUGS, 785 Broadway, 749-1108 is also a place to meet with friends for conversation over a sandwich and a soft drink.

Local companies are also important in the life of high school students. From local businesses students learn the facts about starting a home and being able to make as an adult.
